A Tribute to Anowar Islam S21L: Honoring a Pioneer in Amateur Radio

On May 20, 2024, the Amateur Radio Society of Bangladesh (ARSB) celebrated a significant moment in the history of amateur radio in the country by honoring Anowar Islam, call sign S21L. As a former President of the Bangladesh Amateur Radio League (BARL), Anowar Islam has been a pivotal figure in promoting and advancing amateur radio. In recognition of his contributions, ARSB presented him with an honorary crest.

ARSB also launched a new initiative on YouTube—a three-part video series titled "The History of Amateur Radio in Bangladesh," narrated by Anowar Islam himself. This series aims to chronicle the evolution of amateur radio in the country, offering insights into its past, present, and future.

The video series serves as both an educational resource and a tribute to the pioneers who have shaped the amateur radio landscape in Bangladesh. By documenting these stories, ARSB hopes to inspire future generations of radio enthusiasts.
